

Society Opens
Season With
Two Events

Premiere at Metropolitan and Start of the Horse
Show To-morrow Night
To Be Brilliant Affairs

Debutantes' Reign
Begins This Week

Annual Breakfast Preceding Horse Show Will Take Place This Morning

WHILE there have been a number of informal entertainments for the debutantes in town in the last two weeks and several large dances in the country, including the Tuxedo Ball and the "Dark Horse Stable Dance" at the Turf and Field Club, these have been only a prologue to New York's social activities. The official opening of the New York season really takes place with the premiere at the Metropolitan Opera House and the sessions of the National Horse Show at Squadron A Armory, beginning to-morrow and continuing throughout the week. After these two affairs the reign of the debutante will begin and continue until well into January, when the older set will share with the younger women in the entertaining.

The opera to-morrow night promises to be the most brilliant in years and will compare favorably with pre-war days. Many distinguished foreigners are in this country will be in attendance in the parterre row and prominent members of society from Washington, Philadelphia, Boston and other social centers will be present. Some of the debutantes also will be seen in the coveted boxes of the famous horse-show.

Patrons Row Personnel
Remains Almost Unchanged

Very few changes are noted in the personnel of the partners row, although several new faces will be seen in the grand tier and stall boxes.

Among the newcomers in the parterre are Mr. Thomas L. Leeming, who will have for certain performances the horse owned by Mrs. Vanderbilt; Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman Nickerson and Mrs. Russell Hopkins, who have taken box 10, owned by Mr. Otto H. Kahn; Mr. and Mrs. E. Farrar Bateson, who will be in box 38; Mr. Frank A. Munsey, in boxes 9 and 12; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Y. Dalziel, in box No. 12, owned by Mr. Henry Claws; Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks will have on matinee box 18, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander and the Deice estate, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Bosson, box 34, which is owned by the Haggin estate.

The remainder of the boxholders in the parterre row are practically the same as for seasons past, and, while some of the regular owners of boxes are abroad or in the West at the present time, their boxes will be occupied to-morrow night by relatives and friends.

The Metropolitan Opera Club, as usual, will have the large omnibus box and prominent members of society will occupy seats in the orchestra, the same as they have had for years.

The host to-day, as for years past, will be Mr. John McE. Bowman and the breakfast will take place in the music room of the Hotel Biltmore. It is the curtain raiser to the big show.
